Book clubs are a fun way for students to connect to each other and to literature. By using these high interest chapter books in the "I Survived" series by Lauren Tarshis, 5th grade students who would ordinarily be considered reluctant readers get excited about reading. Teachers meet with students during the book clubs to check on comprehension of text and mastery of skills such as cause/effect, theme and plot development. Students also strengthen their writing skills by creating their own "I Survived" stories. These books will help students enjoy and build their confidence in reading.
